Coin-op Games Face Regulation in Pacifica

Coin-operated games in Pacifica commonly referred to as arcades soon may come under some stringent regulations.

Planning commissioners Monday night instructed the city attorney and planning staff to get together to draft a proposed ordinance that defines an arcade and tells how many machines may be allowed, fees and other methods of control.

The city has no means of regulating such operations, according to Deputy City Atty. Bill Galstan.

Planning Administrator Jim Miller had recommended the commissioners make a formal finding that arcades be an allowed use in a neighborhood commercial district, to give control through the use permit process.

This concern of proper operating zones, along with the draft ordinance, will be the subject of discussion at a future session, commissioners decided. It may be included on the commission's next agenda, which has a request for an arcade and pizza parlor on it already.

At the June 11 study session, commissioners discussed whether arcades should be permitted in neighborhood commercial districts after learning record store operator James Vossen, who had some arcade machines in his business in the Eureka Square Shopping Center, wanted to increase the number of machines.

Vossen Monday night claimed his machines were the only ones licensed in the city, and that he had received no complaints of his operation from the police department. He also claims juke boxes could be construed as being "amusement devices."

Galstan explained that while the city's business license section covers "entertainment," which includes an arcade and stipulates fees such as $25 for pin ball machines and $10 for miniature bowling lanes, the city currently has no means of regulating, for example, the number allowed.

Capt. Bruce Rivers of the police department said, "arcades in general are a nuisance. They present a problem we cannot regulate and will be a burden on the police department," said Rivers.

In a memo to Miller, Capt. Tony Guardino of the police department cited problems in the South San Francisco Westborough Square Shopping Center, allegedly resulting from an arcade operation.

"We are advised of numerous parents' complaints regarding use of lunch money within the arcade rather than for the purpose it was intended," stated Guardino's memo.

"Due to the nature of the operation, it is not inconceivable to expect this location (in Eureka Square) to become a focal point for juvenile activities within the area," it continued.

According to Guardino's memo, the complaints regarding the South San Francisco operation ranged from the use of public sidewalks for the storage of bikes to loitering, malicious mischief and petty theft.

S. Brunan Arrested In Kidnap, Slaying

NORTH COUNTY EDITION

THE POST

Vol. 29, No. 28 DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING WEDNESDAY, JULY 9, 1975

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Arraignment of accused murderer Richard Eugene Post, 28, of San Bruno was postponed today until he finds an attorney to represent him.

Post has been charged with the kidnap-murder of Ruth Wilhelmsen, 21, of San Francisco.

Miss Wilhelmsen was allegedly kidnaped from the parking lot of the Serramonte Shopping Center in Daly City June 29 in broad daylight.

Her body was found Saturday in a clump of bushes 30 feet off Skyline Drive near the Crystal Springs Golf Course.

She had been strangled to death. She had not been sexually molested, according to a San Mateo County investigator.

Post, dressed in slacks and a sport shirt and leather boots, waived reading of the charges in the Northern Judicial District Municipal Court of Judge Charles Becker.

Post was escorted into the South San Francisco courthouse by investigating officers Dennis Prator and Jim Mendiara of Daly City.

Both officers were tight-lipped concerning any comments on the case.

Prator did say that the officers wanted to cooperate with the news media but that they have received a gag order from the judiciary.

Deputy District Attorney Tom Blake was not available for comment on the gag rule.

Prator's comment on the arrest was that Post was stopped by a San Bruno policeman on a routine traffic check of all orange and black Porsches during the search for a suspect in the case.

The victim was last seen alive by eyewitnesses being beaten and forced into a vehicle matching that description at about 4:30 p.m., June 29, by a man matching Post's description.

The Post has learned that the Daly City Police Department has at least two eyewitnesses to the incident involving Miss Wilhemsen.

However, Prator refused to comment on whether these persons were able to pick Post out of a police lineup Monday in Daly City.

Miss Wilhelmsen's strangled body was found in a clump of bushes about 30 feet off Skyline Boulevard near Black Mountain Road in the Crystal Springs watershed area by a San Francisco Water Department employe.

Chuck Bottimore told police he was on routine survey of the watershed when he made the discovery.

San Mateo County Coroner's investigator Steve Hortin said the woman had been dead "at least 72 hours."

Arrested by Daly City and San Bruno police at his Shelter Creek apartment Sunday was Richard Eugene Post, 28, a computer programmer.

The Shelter Creek apartments are a complex located west of Junipero Serra (280) Freeway — some four miles from where Miss Wilhelmsen's body was found.

Post lives in a small studio apartment at Shelter Creek.

Newspaper accounts of a man dragging a woman into a late model orange and black Porsche 914 in the north parking lot of the Serramonte Shopping Center about 4:30 p.m. Sunday, June 29, brought forth witnesses to the incident, police said.

Subsequent accounts in the media reporting the discovery of the girl's body, produced yet another witness to the parking lot struggle, it was learned.

In the course of checking out hundreds of Porsche cars sold in recent years in the Bay Area, Daly City detectives went to Post's apartment with San Bruno police last week.

On checking out Post's car, police reportedly learned he had failed to register with San Bruno police as a convicted sex offender.

San Bruno police arrested Post and later released him after he registered as required by law.

But witnesses, meanwhile, allegedly identified his photograph as that of the man they saw confronting Miss Wilhelmsen in the parking lot as she left work to attend a going-away party for a favorite uncle who was returning to Norway.

Miss Wilhelmsen's keys and purse, containing some $200 was found in her unlocked car by her mother and a friend.

Mrs. Nils Wilhelmsen's and the victim's boyfriend Jeff Coyne took different routes to the Serramonte Shopping Center when the victim failed to return home.

They discovered the car and called police.

Daly City police had received a previous report by an employe of Macy's Auto Center that a man had been seen struggling with a woman in the parking lot.

The employe told Detective Dennis Prator that a man and a woman told him they had witnessed a struggle between Miss Wilhelmsen and a tall, thin man with long brown hair.

The victim had left work earlier than usual on June 29 to attend the party at her mother's home in San Francisco.

She had worked for Macy's as a salesperson for the past year and was a summer student at City College of San Francisco.

Church, Library Welcome

Pacifica Planning commissioners Monday night determined the new Linda Mar library northwest of the Park Mall Shopping Center will be consistent with the city's General Plan, and indicated that a proposed church on adjacent land would be welcome, too.

The determination that the library would be within the spirit and intent of the retail commercial area in which it is proposed to be built was necessary because public facilities do not have special zoning designations, according to Planning Administrator Jim Miller.

The church site proposal was brought up by former planning commissioner and real estate man George Edsell representing the Vista Del Mar Baptist Church.

Edsell said the church had an option to purchase the unused property in the approximately 7.5 acre parcel not taken up by the library. Purchase, he said, was contingent on obtaining a use permit.

The county has not determined whether it will acquire 2.28 or 1.66 acres from owner Challenge Development. Edsell said, "We'll take whatever part of the property the library doesn't take."

According to Edsell, the church wouldn't go into the development stages until early spring. He said he intends for the request to appear on the Sept. 2 agenda.

Commissioners agreed a church would be acceptable on the site, once proposed by Challenge Development for condominiums.

"Personally, I think this is a better use than apartments," said Chairman Jim Brush. Commissioner Ken Grobman said he had always felt that area would be excellent for a commercial development, such as a large department store. He said, however, he still was "objective" on the church idea.

No definite plans have been detailed, according to Edsell. He said the intent is to construct a church for up to 300 persons, including an educational facility (such as for Sunday School) and a fellowship hall. If enough space and money is available, a recreation area for young people also is planned, he said.

Not to Brisbane

Visitacion: Annex The Mountain to D.C.

Visitacion Associates, developers of the proposed Crocker Hills community on San Bruno Mountain, has asked the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) to annex the mountain to Daly City instead of Brisbane.

Robert L. Follett, general manager of Visitacion, said his reasons for the annexation request is based on his company's feeling that "Crocker Hills should not be annexed to Brisbane" and should become part of Daly City.

Last year, LAFCO gave a tentative "sphere of influence" over the mountain to Brisbane.

Critics of the action said that if the planned community of 18,000 persons went into Brisbane, with its population of some 3,000, it might become a classic case of "the tail wagging the dog."

The size of the mountain development could overwhelm the bayside city, it was explained.

According to Visitacion, annexation of Crocker Hills by Daly City would produce a greater benefit to a greater number of people, including the new residents of the community — if it is developed.

Among the reasons given by Follett to support this position were:

• The alleged political instability of Brisbane "as demonstrated not only by its recent actions regarding the Visitacion property, but by the periodic movements to recall members of the city council."

• Lack of sufficient departments and personnel in Brisbane to handle needs of the proposed development. Daly City, according to Follett, has the resources, demonstrated experience and ability to provide such service.

• Only a fractional portion of the Crocker lands is contiguous to Brisbane. (This was described as the commercial site fronting on Old Bayshore Boulevard at Guadalupe Canyon Parkway.) Although Buckeye Canyon is adjacent to Brisbane, Follett explained, it is considered to be a "biotically sensitive area" and the developer has already publicly stated it will be offered for dedication to the county upon approval of the overall plan.

• The land proposed for development connects with Daly City over a wide area and is a natural extension of the city. Two parcels — Reservoir Hill and Visitacion Valley — are already in the city limits of Daly City.

• Because of its more than 50,000 resident population, Daly City is eligible for Community Development Revenue Sharing and Human Resources funds, Follett said. These programs could provide opportunities in keeping with the stated objectives of San Mateo County as outlined by the county's planning staff in its Crocker Hills report, he said.

• Public opinion polls conducted recently in Brisbane indicate its citizens are opposed to the project "and presumably do not desire it," Follett said.

"The Brisbane City Council," Follett charged, "has acted in a rather curious manner.

"On the one hand (the people of Brisbane) oppose the Crocker Hills project, while at the same time they seek to annex the property if the project is to go forward.

"(Brisbane) seeks to buy a portion of our property in the Saddle Area for a park site without any apparent tax base and they seek to annex a portion of Crocker Industrial Park in order to finance all these varied plans," Follett said.

No Annexation Permitted

Brisbane Offer Nixed

Crocker Land Co., owners of the multi-million dollar Crocker Industrial Park adjacent to Brisbane, has "officially" threw cold water on proposals made by Brisbane to annex the complex.

Brisbane Mayor Art Montenegro Jr. had bared a plan to annex the industrial park and use its tax revenues to finance bonds for purchase of the so-called "saddle area" of San Bruno Mountain — proposed site of a new residential community of some 18,000 people.

In a June 17 letter to the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, Montenegro said the City Council was "operating under a mandate by our citizens" to preserve the mountain in open space.

But M. Sherman Eubanks, president of Crocker Land Co., advised the supervisors the company "has no intention of permitting the annexation of Crocker Industrial Park to the City of Brisbane" for the purpose of raising tax monies to buy the mountain.

Both sides must agree in annexation procedures.

Last month, Brisbane conducted a city-wide survey of citizen attitudes on the mountain development. Reportedly the City Council received an overwhelming vote to do whatever was considered necessary to keep the area in open space.

In order to do this the city pledged not more than $5 million for the purchase of remaining lands.

Jewish Center Plans Day Care Services

Brotherhood Way Jewish Community Center announced the beginning of an extended day care program in conjunction with the start of their fall nursery school, Sept. 16, 1975.

The extended day care program is designed to accommodate up to 15 children of working and student parents whose children are registered to attend the Center's Nursery School Monday through Friday.

Extended day care means that parents may deliver their children to the Center at 8:30 a.m. (30 minutes prior to the start of school) and pick them up at 5:30 p.m.

The nursery school is in session from 9 a.m.-11:45 a.m.

In addition to the full curriculum offered at the nursery school, including physical activities in both the gym and the outdoor area and playground, arts and crafts rooms, story-telling, music, nature hikes, field trips and creative dramatics, the extended day care also will include a lunch hour, rest period, plus carefully supervised recreation and creative programs. Children should bring their lunches. Milk and snacks will be provided.

Both the nursery school and extended day care program are under the direction of Maria Solis and trained professional staff.

The cost for the combined nursery school and extended day care program is $152 a month. The five morning nursery school alone is $67 a month.

Special two and three day programs also are available.

All programs offered by Brotherhood Way JCC are open to all members of the community. Membership in the center is required for all who enroll in the nursery school.

Enrollment for both the nursery school and extended day care are limited. Registration will be handled on a first come basis. Parents interested in more information are invited to call the center at 334-7474.

A limited number of scholarships and fee reductions are available.

Exploring Peninsula Architecture

By Ro LOGRIPPO
Staff Writer

If you're living in an older house on the Peninsula, take note. Your residence just might be an undiscovered work of Julia Morgan.

"Who is Julia Morgan?", you may ask.

Pose that question to Sara Holmes Boutelle and she'll probably tell you Miss Morgan was one of the finest achitects California ever has known and surely the most significant woman architect practicing the first half of the 20th century.

And Mrs. Boutelle ought to know — she has been delving into the architect's life and work ever since she first visited Miss Morgan's masterpiece, the Hearst Castle at San Simeon.

An art historian, Mrs. Boutelle first saw the Hearst Castle four years ago on a vacation from her home in New York where she taught gifted girls at the Bearley School. An instructor who searched for role models for her students, Mrs. Boutelle began to research Julia Morgan when she returned to the East Coast.

But Sara Boutelle's trips to the New York libraries proved futile. Not a book on California's first woman licensed architect was to be found. And no more than sketchy references about the first woman to receive a master's degree from L'Ecole des Beaux Arts in Paris were unearthed in books about the Hearst empire.

So intrigued was Mrs. Boutelle with her subject matter and so incensed at the lack of material on Miss Morgan, that she decided to pursue the research if she returned to the West. That opportunity occurred two years ago when she moved to Santa Cruz after the death of her husband.

It came as a big surprise to Mrs. Boutelle when she uncovered little more on Julia Morgan in the native San Franciscan's environs than she did 3,500 miles away.

"I found one item in the main Berkeley library," said Mrs. Boutelle during her interview with The Post, "and a few architectural drawings and blueprints in the Bancroft Library at the University of California in Berkeley including a sketch of a Julia Morgan bungalow in Saratoga which has no address or owner noted."

(One of the few books which contains details about Julia Morgan is the 1928-29 edition of Who's Who in California. Its description of the architect is scant and includes the fact that she received a bachelor of science degree from the University of California in 1894, but does not mention that she was the first woman to be graduated in engineering. It also notes that she studied with Bernard Maybeck and others, and that she started her architectural practice in San Francisco in 1904.)

At Berkeley's College of Environmental Design, Mrs. Boutelle discovered her first "prize" piece of information — a bibliography referring to the 1918 trade journal, "The Architect and Engineer," which contained an article by Miss Morgan's associate, Walter Steilberg, and several pictures of her work. Photographed by Steilberg, the buildings include the Mills College library and gymnasium, the Methodist Chinese Mission in San Francisco, Lakeview School in Oakland, Asilomar, Miss Burke's School in San Francisco, Miss Ransom and Miss Bridges School in Piedmont (no longer standing), and several YWCAs throughout the state.

The list published by the trade journal was hardly complete. It neglected to mention the majority of the residences and other buildings the architect designed which have been estimated to number from 600 to 2000.

After reading Steilberg's work, Mrs. Boutelle tried to find the man who had worked with Julia Morgan from 1916 to the 1940s. She located the 88-year-old man in Berkeley and had started to piece together facts about his former employer's life, when he died last December in an auto accident. Had he lived, Mrs. Boutelle might now be in possession of negatives of the pictures he had taken of Miss Morgan's works. Steilberg told Mrs. Boutelle he had lost track of them.

Through her conversations with Steilberg, Ed Hussey (another associate of Julia Morgan) and some of the architect's relatives, Mrs. Boutelle learned one of the reasons why San Simeon's creator has been almost universally ignored.

"Julia Morgan was a very private person, I learned," said Mrs. Boutelle. "She was very unpretentious and unassuming, and she refused to be interviewed because she felt architecture was visual and her buildings spoke from themselves. She was unimpressed with others in her field — like her contemporary Frank Lloyd Wright — who talked about their achievements."

Perhaps it was Miss Morgan's modesty that led her to destroy whatever records were not claimed by her clients when she ended her 50-year practice.

Undaunted by the sparse information she was unraveling about her subject matter, Mrs. Boutelle persisted in her research. The more she searched for details about Miss Morgan, the more she knew she had to write a book about her findings.

To that end, Mrs. Boutelle has been devoting her full time the past year. Her days are spent talking to those who knew the architect, and traveling to buildings Julia Morgan has done or might have done.

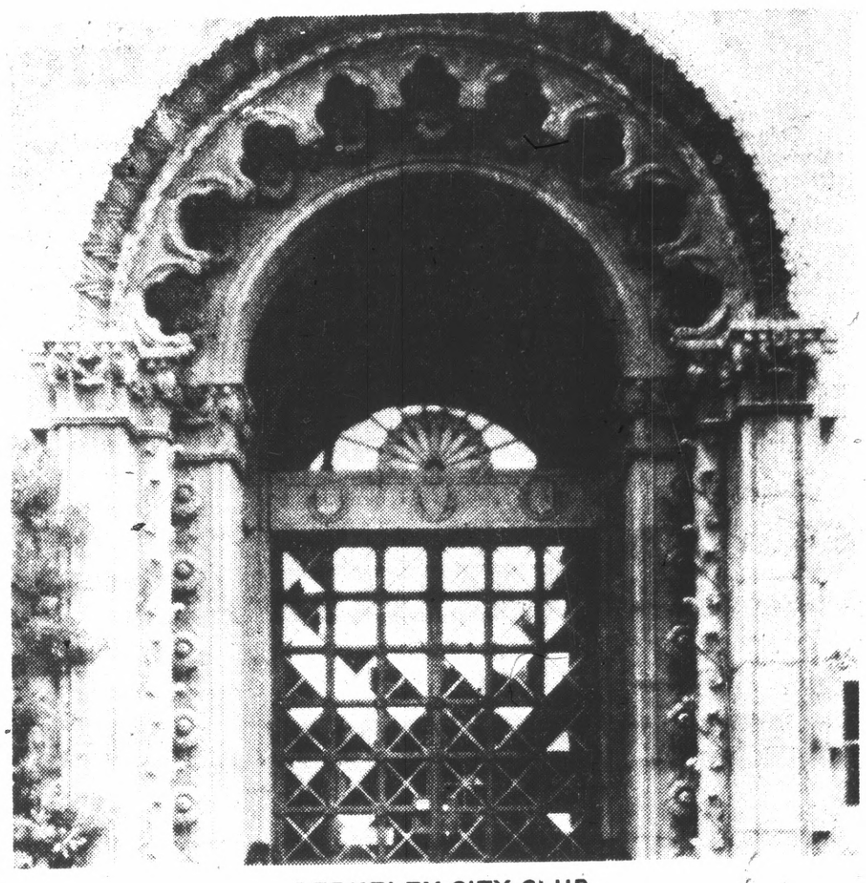
"I spent days at the Berkeley City Club," Mrs. Boutelle recalls, "studying Miss Morgan's work so I could familiarize myself with her style and find clues to help me identify her unrecorded works."

What are some of the clues Mrs. Boutelle discovered?

Rooms built off a central hall . . . built-in bookcases, window seats . . . natural woods . . . main entrances to the side of the building . . . arched windows in pairs of two or three on imposing structures . . . grillwork . . . shingles — all are characteristics of Julia Morgan's work.

"She was an eclectic architect who chose styles that would suit the client as well as the site," said Mrs. Boutelle. For this reason, her works range from the very fancy (like San Simeon) to the very simple (like Old St. John's Presbyterian Church in Berkeley, now the site of the Eastern Music Center Scripps Foundation.)

Although Miss Morgan's works are varied, they all reflect her meticulous attention to detail, imaginative use of materials, and craftsmanship. Of the latter, Mrs. Boutelle says: "Miss Morgan went out of her way to find the best of the old-time craftsmen, and she inspected their work with exactness. She was physically fearless," she added, "and climbed out on the scaffolding to check her projects."



BERKELEY CITY CLUB

Like many of the imposing structures she designed, Julia Morgan used the arched effect on this doorway of the Berkeley City Club. Sara Holmes Boutelle, who is gathering material to write a book about California's first licensed woman architect, spent days at the Berkeley City Club studying Miss Morgan's style so that she could help identify the architect's works which are "lost."

Rezoning Sparks Audience Walkout

Angry San Bruno homeowners, concerned about the future impact of rezoning of property near their neighborhood, appeared before the planning commission Monday night.

Residents at times shouted for the commission to reconsider rezoning. Following heated discussion, the group walked out en masse.

The residents departed the chambers only minutes before the commission failed by a 3-3 vote to continue the matter, then again failed by the same vote to recommend to the City Council that 10 parcels of land on the south side of San Bruno Avenue be rezoned from A-R (administrative-research) to C-N (neighborhood commercial).

Commissioner Leon Miller was not present at the meeting.

The city planning staff had requested that the commission rezone the 10 parcels comprising a 670-foot frontage on the south side of the avenue beginning 225 feet west of El Camino Real and extending to 80 feet west of Acacia Avenue.

The property already is developed with small medical and professional offices and parking spaces. According to a staff report prepared for the commission, under the existing A-R zoning the uses on the property are non-conforming. The staff suggested compatible zoning is needed so the property owners may improve their property.

It was explained to the commission that the staff believes the C-N zone allows "the most acceptable" group of land uses for the area and that the recommendation is "fairly" consistent with the adopted land use plan which shows the area as high density residential and office.

Property owner Rudolf DeFreeze warned the commission rezoning to C-N would create parking problems and declared he saw no need for additional commercial zoning in the city.

"There's lots of commercial property at Bayhill," DeFreeze said. "We don't need it on San Bruno Avenue. We'd like to keep our area the way it is.

"We have commercial areas all over this city; why should we have another C-N district?" he asked.

An Acacia Avenue resident concurred. "Bayhill has all the commercial area this city needs. We have a real nice neighborhood and we like it that way. Rezoning of property right by us will make people move," the resident said.

Defreeze asked if the planning staff had explored other zoning alternatives. Assistant Planner Kay Ransom said it had.

Ms. Ransom told DeFreeze the staff had considered other more liberal zoning, but deemed them inappropriate since they would allow more uses than the C-N zoning.

At this point one resident walked to the microphone and declared, "I have only one thing to say — You can't fight city hall."

As he turned to follow his neighbors out of the chambers, he shouted at the commission, "One more thing, I'd just like to know what would be allowed in a neighborhood commercial?"

Planning Commission Chairwoman Polly Sandkulla warned the man he was out of order, then asked the man to sit down, while Ms. Ransom was asked to read a list of permitted uses in a C-N zone.

The assistant planner cited clothing stores, auto accessory sales stores, barber shops, book stores and variety stores as several permitted uses.

Commissioner Robin Nowinski sugested the commission continue the matter until the next meeting, stating he had "reservations with the approach to the problem." Commissioner Tom Ricci concurred. Mrs. Sandkulla also voted for the continuance, stating she wanted the rezoning accomplished in conjunction with the land use study now being prepared by the city.

Commissioners Loretta Curry, Sam Murry and Gervin Whitney voted against the continuance and for the rezoning on a separate motion.

Assistant City Atty. Dermot Fitzgerald told the commission the present A-R zoning could constitute inverse condemnation, since the uses were non-conforming and thus property owners could not improve their property.

He warned that if zoning were not changed a suit could be filed.

It was announced during the public hearing that a medical building on the A-R-zoned property plans to expand its facilities.

Since the commission was unable to agree on the rezoning recommended by the planning staff, the commission told a spokesman for the medical building that he could, on behalf of the medical building, apply for a rezoning or for a variance for the planning expansion.

Panel Seeks Horses

The San Bruno Bicentennial Committee is in need of four horses.

According to Loretta Curry, the committee is seeking loan of four horses to draw a "Wells Fargo" type stage coach from the Tanforan Shopping Center down El Camino Real to the San Mateo County fairgrounds July 28, opening day of the Fair.

Mrs. Curry said the stage coach, which left Fresno in March for a tour of the county will be in San Bruno July 27. The coach is gathering signatures from Americans endorsing their faith in the Bill of Rights. The signatures will be microfilmed and perserved at Valley Forge, Pa., for the year 2176.

Stroke Club Sets Meeting

The Mid County Stroke Club of the American Heart Association of San Mateo County will meet 7:30 p.m. July 15 at Mary's Help Hospital, ninth floor recreation room.

Millbrae Budget Cut

The Millbrae City Council has sliced slightly more than $50,000 from the 1975-76 budget, which may permit a one-cent reduction in the tax rate.

Meeting July 1 in the last of a series of budget study sessions, the council pruned an additional $28,000 over the $22,000 it had cut from the budget the week before.

The net effort of the budget reductions, according to City Administrator Lee Horner, will be a minimal decrease in the tax rate.

Horner had proposed a $4,336,330 budget, an 8.5 per cent increase over last year's budget. Horner's 1975-76 budget reflected a three-cent increase in the tax rate.

The council considered the total tax rate increase unnecessary, slicing $20,000 from the capital improvements budget request for $40,000 for a bay front park and bike route, and refusing to authorize the replacement of several city vehicles. It was the feeling of the council that a half-ton pickup truck and a staff automobile could be driven for another year.

At an earlier budget study session, the council did add to the budget employe benefits into the maintenance and operation of the new firehouse raising the budget for the second firehouse to $117,359. But the increase was negated by reductions in the other budget categories.

At Tuesday night's meeting much discussion centered on the Chamber of Commerce's request for an additional $5,000 over what the council allocated the chamber last year.

Chamber President Bob McAdams at first asked the council for a total of $19,072 then later trimmed that request to $17,000, indicating the extra funds were needed for salary raises for Chamber Manager Valli Slate and her secretary.

The request did not sit well with the council.

"I'm not impressed with this request at all," Mayor Barney Spers told McAdams, "especially when I see vacant land out there and no retail businesses on it.

"Instead of holding social events and the such, the chamber should busy itself bringing business in here," he said.

Noting the extra chamber funds requested were to pay for a 45 per cent salary increase for the chamber manager and a 100 per cent increase for the manager's secretary, who is scheduled to become a full time employe, Councilman Tulio Bertini suggested that the chamber cut, instead of increase, the hours of the two chamber employes.

"Your budget," commented Councilman Bill Glang, "is bigger than mine is (Glang operates an insurance office), and my volume is 10 times what yours is. I get by with a half-time secretary.

"I have problems defending the activities in the chamber. It looks to me like there's a lot of make-busy work," Glang said.

And Councilman Bernard Esser noted Millbrae already contributes more money per capital to the chamber than any other city in the county except Brisbane.

McAdams told the council the chamber faced a deficit of $4,500 and that if additional funds were not appropriated, he would seek means of cutting back, including the possibility of looking for a less expensive rental office.

McAdams said the chamber each year is depending more on chamber members' dues to fund its operation, noting dues increased 17 per cent last year. McAdam said it is the goal of the chamber to become completely idenpendent of city funding.

The council unanimously denied the chamber's request for an increase to its budget. They approved the city administrator's recommended allocation of $14,514.

The budget will come before the council for adoption at its meeting this week.

Zulch, assistant to the state director for North California; (standing, from left) Daly City officials Tony Giammona and Victor Kyriakis.

Assessment Roll Exceeds Estimate In S.M. County

San Mateo County's total assessment roll climbed $414 million to a new high of $2.9 billion, an overall increase of 16.6 per cent, Assessor Jack Estes said last week.

The new roll exceeded estimated by Estes that the roll would rise 13 to 14 per cent.

"The shocker is the unsecured roll — inventories are up because of the sluggish economy — it's not moving," Estes said at a press conference.

The unsecured roll, made up of inventory, machinery and equipment, office furniture and furnishings, leased equipment, and aircraft and airline buildings at International Airport, rose 17.17 per cent to $428.2 million.

The overall 16.6 per cent increase is not the highest in San Mateo County history.

In 1965 a State Board of Equalization-ordered reassessment brought an average hike of 30 per cent in assessed values, Estes said.

Pointing to $55 million in new construction countywide in one year, Estes said that played a large role in some of the increases in individual cities.

Leading the cities was Half Moon Bay with a 37.41 per cent increase, with Foster City right behind with a 35.62 per cent increase which Estes attributes to reappraisal of all new apartments in that community.

Other cities showing increases are Belmont, 30.83 per cent increase caused by residential reappraisal; Atherton, 30.76 per cent increase attributed to new construction and reappraisal; San Carlos, 27.10 per cent increase; and San Bruno 26.20 increase caused by reappraisal of apartments.

Of 183,000 total parcels of real property, assessment notices went out for 91,000 parcels, Estes said, and of those 75,000 were reappraisals.

Commercial and industrial reappraisal included all of Menlo Park, Burlingame, Pacifica, and a portion of San Mateo from 19th Avenue to 37th Avenue, Estes said.

In addition, 411 parcels of coast acreage, between 11 and 60 acres in size, were reviewed by Estes' staff during the year.

Howard Hughes' barge in Redwood City, which originaliy was assessed at 1 per cent as a research vessle, has been reassessed at 25 per cent like everybody else and will get a tax bill of $175,396, Estes said.

The city of South San Francisco led all other cities with the largest dollar gain, $36.4 million over 1974, with other cities ranking as follows:

Redwood City, $35.6 million gain over 1974; Burlingame, $32.7 million; San Carlos, $29.9 million; San Bruno, $28.7 million; Menlo Park, $28.1 million; and San Mateo, $25.1 million.

The roll for the unincorporated portion of the county experienced a rise of $24.3 million from $236.8 million to $261.2 million.

The new figures brought an immediate reaction from County Manager M. D. Tarshes who reported to the Board of Supervisors that the hike in assessed value would cost the county an $825,000 increase in state Medi-Cal payment which is tied to each county's assessed valuation.

North County increases by city are as follows:

Brisbane, $932,332, up 8.54 per cent to $11,850,375; Burlingame, $32,768,387, up 24.39 per cent to $167,124,079; Colma, $109,804, up 2.35 per cent to $4,789,894.

Daly City, $7,908,297, up 4.58 per cent to $180,634,504; Millbrae, $17,121,817, up 21.27 per cent to $97,616,387; Pacifica, $8,502,578, up 9.53 per cent to $97,766,821;

San Bruno, $28,707,157, up 26.20 per cent to $138,272,520. South San Francisco, $36,435,415, up 18.40 per cent to $234,441,667.

By law, Estes is required to assess property at 25 per cent of current market value.

Club to Show Diet Fashion Event Slides

A second chance to see The Diet Workshop's "It's In To Be Thin" fashion show will be offered free to the public.

The live show took place in May and the proceeds from the event went to benefit The American Cancer Society.

On July 14 at 8 p.m. at 45 Southgate (2nd floor) and July 15 at 10 a.m. at 90 Northridge, Elise Gendar, area director for The Diet Workshop, will show the slides of this very unusual "before and after" fashion show.

The Mesdames Rachael Edie, Rhoda Ranchor, Alice Daly, Anita Inocencio and Joann Siangiacomo are the Daly City residents who will be featured in the presentation.

Lutherans Set Rededication

The Rev. Lester E. Zeitler, the first resident pastor of Our Savior's Lutheran Church, Pacifica, will return to the pulpit of the church, July 13 at 11 a.m., for a special service of thanksgiving and rededication.

Recently the congregation made its last payment on the mortgage, so the church is now debt free.

The church building was dedicated to the glory of God on June 22, 1958, during The Rev. Zeitler's pastorate.

Much volunteer labor on the part of the pastor, members and friends went into the construction of the building.

The Rev. Zeitler served this congregation from Aug. 5, 1956, until July 31, 1960, at which time he accepted a call as assistant professor of practical theology and assistant dean of students at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Miss.

The present pastor of the church, The Rev. John Rische, who also serves as the Protestant chaplain at Laguna Honda Hospital in San Francisco, said all members, former members and friends may participate in the service on July 13.

Following the service there will be a reception for the Zeitlers and dinner for all who are able to stay.

The church is located on the Coast Cabrillo Highway at Rockaway Beach.

CHECKING EYESIGHT

Our Lady of Guadalupe Health Center, 75 Wellington, Daly City, recently announced the addition of an optometrist to its staff. Trying out new equipment and viewing the new office were (from left) Dr. Nick Gutierrez, optometrist; Dr. Sam Wycoff; Daly City Mayor Victor Kyriakis; Shelley Fernandez, health center director; and James Fitzgerald, a member of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

Health Services Offers Communication Series

Parent-Child Communication is alive and well in Region III Mental Health Services after two series of eight pilot classes offered by San Mateo County Department of Public Health and Welfare, Children's Services and co-sponsored by the Mental Health Association.

The classes are offered to the general public at a nominal fee as an Adult School Class through the San Mateo High School District, due to start July 1, 1975, in San Mateo.

More than 1,000 parents have taken the series getting together in small groups for a short course in basic communication skills which work not only with children but other people too.

The group focus primarily on teaching the fundamentals of feeling, listening, sending a clear message and problem solving.

The group offers the opportunity to practice the skills in role play and focus on the "process" of communication rather than proving solutions.

Any adult with pre-kindergarden of older children will be accepted.

For further information, call Mental Health Association of San Mateo County by calling 349-5588.

THE DONALD COYLES
(Patricia Krepelka)

Tahoe Honeymoon For Recently Marrieds

Reno and Lake Tahoe were on the honeymoon itinerary of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Vincent Coyle (Patricia Ann Krepelka), who exchanged vows at Mater Dolorosa Church in South San Francisco.

The Rev. Joe Gordon performed the ceremony.

Immediately after the wedding, the newlyweds received felicitations at Lind Hall in Belmont.

For her wedding, Patricia wore a white organza gown with a wide band of Chantilly lace and a chapel length train with a three tiered veil. Regina Miller, her sole attendant, wore a pale pink gown with a V neckline.

George Roumbanis was the best man, and ushers included Robbie Lehr and Walter Moorman.

The new Mrs. Coyle was graduated from El Camino High School and is now studying nursing at San Francisco State. Her husband is a Crestmoor High School graduate.

PROMOTED

Promoted to sergeant in the U.S. Air Force is Victor C. Presler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted A. Presler of 612 Larchmont, Daly City.

Sergeant Presler is assigned at Carswell AFB, Tex., as a security police specialiist.

He is a member of the Strategic Air Command.

Wedding at SSF Church

The Church of God in South San Francisco was the setting for the marriage of Debra Maloney and Robert Chaney.

Debra, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Maloney of San Bruno, recited her vows in a white Spanish lace gown with a long veil.

She was attended by Vicky De Simone in a green flowered gown as maid of honor and bridesmaids Lynn Wright, Debra Williams and Terri Bawden in blue gowns. Marie and Alfred Bayona were flower girl and ring bearer.

Robert, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chaney of South San Francisco, is the brother of Rick, Ron, Ted and Candy Chaney, Judy Huchkaf and Pat Karlsted. His father served as his best man and guests were seated by Rich Chaney, Mike Maloney, brother of the bride, and Bill De Simone.

Debra, who was graduated from Crestmoor High School, now is a student at the College of San Mateo where her husband also studied.

After a reception at Morales Hall in South San Francisco, the couple departed for a wedding trip to Ohio. They will make their first home in South San Francisco.

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Q. I know Medicare only pays for care in participating hospitals, but how do I know if a hospital is participating? And what happens if I have to go into a hospital that doesn't participate?

A. You can find out if a hospital or other health facility is participating in Medicare by asking someone there or by calling a social security office. Most hospitals do participate in Medicare. Medicare can help pay for care in a non-participating hospital only if you are admitted as an inpatient on an emergency basis and the hospital is the closest or quickest one to get to that can handle the emergency.

J.C. Penney Co. Says June Sets Sales Mark

J. C. Penney Co., Inc., Wednesday reported a 9.8 per cent gain in June sales compared with 1974.

Sales for the four-week period ended June 28 rose to a record $551.4 million, compared with $502.1 million for the same period last year, said Donald V. Seibert, chairman, and Jack B. Jackson, president.

Seibert and Jackson said they are reasonably confident the continued improvement in the company's sales reflects the start of an expected upturn in retailing.

They also said leading government indicators are now beginning to signal gradual recovery from the recession, which has curtailed consumer spending.

Company units said sales were paced by Father's Day business and sportswear buying in the men's and women's areas. Also, customers responded well to major appliance and home electronics events and, in the last week of the period, to the beginning of traditional summer clearance sales.

Volume for the first five months of the fiscal year, Jan. 26 through June 28, was 5.1 per cent ahead of last year. Sales for the 22 weeks totaled a record $2,686.7 million, compared with $2,555.8 million a year ago.

J.C. Penney operated 2,040 retail units at the end of the June period, compared with The Treasury stores, drug 2,026 in 1974. Retail units stores, supermarkets and include J.C. Penney stores, European stores.

Mayor Blasts ABAG Coastal Report

Pacifica Mayor Stan Farber has asked for a Pacifica meeting with the ABAG-MTC Joint Policy Committee regarding a report of its staff concerning policy alternatives for a San Mateo County Coastal Transportation Corridor.

In an as promised letter, Farber also said legal action, if necessary, would be taken to prevent "unilateral imposition of controls by outside regional agencies on local communities."

Farber and council members Grace McCarthy and Aubrey Lumley verbally blasted the report at a recent council meeting, calling it a transportation plan that didn't discuss transportation. They said it was, instead, a growth versus no-growth document.

Councilwoman Janice Fulford supported the report and Councilman Sid Lorvan was absent from that meeting, where Farber was instructed to write the letter on a 3-1 vote.

"I know you do not subscribe to and will not tolerate railroad tactics on important governmental issues in your own communities," stated the letter.

"Knowing this, I look forward to your early response on suggested dates and locations for our next meeting prior to any official committee actions on the issues which concern us."

Farber's letter also stated that "these meetings must of necessity be held in Pacifica."

In the two-page, single-spaced communication Farber lists three main points of discussion: that the study is not a transportation study; that it reflects no real input from Pacifica; and that it ignores "and shows total disdain" for the fundamental concepts of due process, home role, self determination and local autonomy.

"We are forced to reject the entire report as invalid based on land planning, social, economic and environmental grounds, as well as strong philosophical-legal objections," states the letter.

"Even a casual reading of the document reveals strong evidence of an anti-growth bias. It is clear to us in Pacifica your staff gave no serious thought to an in-depth analysis of transportation corridor problems and opportunities but, instead, consciously or unconsciously, used their assignment as a vehicle to display their own predetermined bias on the issue of growth versus no growth on the San Mateo County coast."

The letter questioned why the report didn't discuss "traffic-choked, accident-plagued" Coast Highway. Or give an "origin and destination analysis" showing the characteristics on people and vehicle movements in and around Pacifica.

"Why are Pacifica's plans for a November popular election on the extension of Route 380 not recognized and dealth with?" asks the letter. "All we have to date are a series of biased, predetermined conclusions connected with stereotyped, tenuous reasoning from your anti-growth staff."

The letter charges that "while your people paid lip service to local input by contacting city staff, not even that input is reflected in any meaningful way in the report.

"One way or another we will insure that local input and self determination is given proper weight in connection with coastal corridor policies in and around Pacifica," promised the letter.

"There will be serious legal questions on the validity of (any official action applying the staff recommendations). The unilateral imposition of contorls by outside regional agencies on local communities in the fundamental areas of growth, land use, and socio-economic welfare of our residents with no more justification than a biased, superficial staff study will not go without serious legal challenge."

PG&E Seeking Plant Sites

Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has announced it is looking over four potential sites for a new fossil-fueled power plant, two of the sites in San Mateo County.

The announcement from PG&E Vice President Barton W. Schackelford said the Oyster Point and Visitacion Valley areas of this county were under consideration, along with Alviso in Santa Clara County and PG&E's own power plant in the Potrero District of San Francisco.

A PG&E spokesman said today that no particular spot has been listed as a favorite and that the utility must submit at least three alternative sites when filing a notice of intent for power plant construction with the new California Energy Sources Conservation and Development Commission.

The company plans to file the notice of intent later this year, with public hearings to follow in the affected counties. This should take perhaps 18 months. If approved, construction could start three years from now and the new plant could be in operation in five years, the spokesman said.

The projected 360,000-kilowatt plant could serve 350,000 people, or well over half the total population of San Mateo County, according to PG&E figures.

There have been no decisions made on which site is preferred and "The plans will take a lot of refining before we'll know," the spokesman said.

Pair Sentenced For Shooting Man

Two San Bruno men were sentenced July 1 for their part in a shooting of a South San Francisco man last March 3.

Mark D. Henderson, 30, who pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon, was sentenced to state prison for one to 10 years by Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo.

Judge Piombo sentenced Ned Anthony Wilson, 30, to one year in county jail and three years probation after his guilty plea to a charge of accessory after the fact of an assault with a deadly weapon.

A third man, Lawrence E. Cauchi, 23, of San Bruno, the alleged triggerman, was sentenced to prison last month.

Police said that the three abducted and shot Richard Allen Davis, 23, in the back, leaving him along the Bayshore Freeway near Brisbane.

The trio initially was charged with kidnaping and attempted murder.

Flaming TV July 4 Salute

A 1959 Cadillac convertible and 44 elderly television sets met in a flaming salute to July 4 at the Cow Palace parking lot in Daly City Friday in what was billed as an art happening.

The television sets were piled up to form a solid wall and then set afire to symbolize what its promoters, the Ant Farm art collective in San Francisco, described as a "media burn," designed to free viewers "from the addiction of television."

SCHOOL BICENTENNIAL EVENT

A parade was held at Colma Elementary School in Daly City last Thursday to help celebrate American's Bicentennial year. The parade highlighted a day of special activities, including games, square dancing, an "old-fashioned" hot-dog picnic and a "chalk-in," in which children chalked scenes depicting America and its history on the school's blacktopping. The summer school program was led by Teacher-Principal Mrs. Gladys Regan. Above: the parade. Below: a participant gets ready for the parade.

Cranston Aide To Visit Area

An aide to U.S. Senator Alan Cranston (D-Calif.) will open one-day senate field offices in Pacifica and South San Francisco, July 17 and 18, the senator's Washington office announced.

Gerald Yoachum is Senator Cranston's statewide field representative. During open office hours in each city Yoachum will listen to opinions on current local and national issues and will offer to help individuals having problems with federal agencies.

Th Cranston aide will be available to the general public in the Pacifica City Council Chambers on July 17, from 1 to 4 p.m. The chambers are located on the second floor of the city's water quality control plant, 2212 Beach Blvd.

On Friday in South San Francisco, Yoachum will hold open office hours in the mayor's office in City Hall, corner of Grand Avenue and Maple.

Each day Yoachum will also confer with local officials and community groups to determine local priorities for federal programs. But the open office hours each afternoon are reserved for private citizens. No advance appointment is necessary.

"This is one way for Senator Cranston to make the resources of his office available to people at the local level," Yoachum said. "At the same time it gives Cranston an insight into what Californians are thinking and saying about current issues."

The opinions and individual problems brought to Yoachum will be given priority treatment in Cranston offices in San Francisco and Washington, D.C.

20 Cent Tax Rate Cut Seen

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors may be able to effect a tax rate cut of more than 20 cents this year, Chairman James V. Fitzgerald said today.

Fitzgerald made his comment in the wake of the announcement by County Assessor Jack Estes that the assessed valuation of property subject to taxation in the county increased by 16.66 per cent for 1975-76.

The increase in value, $414,191,368 more than last year, brings the total of secured and unsecured rolls to nearly $3 billion.

Fitzgerald said it may be possible to lower the county tax rate by an amount "in excess of 20 cents" per $100 of assessed valuation. That would make it possible to "meet our goal of having the lowest county tax rate in the state," he noted.

The 1974-75 tax rate was $1.91.

The percentage increases in assessed valuations for the county's cities and unincorporated areas are:

Atherton, 30.76; Belmont, 30.83; Brisbane, 8.54; Burlingame, 24.39; Colma, 2.35; Daly City, 4.58; Foster City, 35.62; Half Moon Bay, 37.41; Hillsborough, 2.40; Menlo Park, 20.22; Millbrae, 21.27; Pacifica, 9.53; Portola Valley, 10.69; Redwood City, 20.14; San Bruno, 26.20; San Carlos, 27.10; San Mateo, 8.49; South San Francisco, 18.40; Woodside, 5.70 and unincorporated areas, 10.30.

Four Held in Robbery

Three San Franciscans and a Daly City woman were arrested by San Bruno police early Wednesday, after they allegedly broke into a woman's apartment, attacked and attempted to rob her.

Arrested and booked at the Daly City Jail, according to San Bruno police, were Andreas Rodriquez, 31, San Francisco; Tony Campos, 41, San Francisco; Karen Henriquez, 20, San Francisco, and Antonette Imholc, 18, Daly City.

Campos was charged with burglary, Rodriguez, with burglary and assault to commit rape, and Henriquez and Imholc with burglary and strong armed robbery.

According to police, at about 2 a.m., the four suspects drove to an Easton Avenue apartment occupied by a 21-year-old woman, whom police would not identify.

Police said the two female suspects, Imholc and Henriquez, knocked on the door of the apartment and when the victim answered they "made like they knew her." When the victim opened the door the girls, police said, forced their way in and began pulling the victim's hair, hitting her and knocking her to the floor. Police said the two male suspects stood by and watched the alleged beating.

Somehow, police said, the victim was able to escape the attackers. She ran to a neighboring apartment and banged on the door. The suspects, however, dragged the girl back into her apartment.

Once inside, police said, Rodriquez allegedly forced the victim into her bedroom and allegedly attempted to remove her clothes and to rape her, while the two girls allegedly collected records and other valuables.

Meanwhile, the occupant of the neighboring apartment, aroused by the ruckus, called police.

Sgt. Jerry Canning and Officer Paul Sheperd arrived at the apartment and arrested the four suspects without a struggle.

Police said the victim told them she might have known the two girls.

Pacifica Couple Exchanges Vows

Kathryn Isobel Hersch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hersch of Pacifica, was married to William F. Slack Jr. recently at Vista Del Mar Baptist Church in Pacifica. The bridegroom is the son of the senior William Slacks, also of the coastside city.

Kathryn carried a nosegay of white miniature carnations, with yellow baby roses and baby's breath with lace edging. She was escorted to the altar by her father.

Margaret Cowie, her cousin's maid of honor, wore a yellow gown and carried a nosegay of white and yellow miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Blue dresses and blue and white flowers were chosen by the bridesmaids who were Linda and Peggy Slack, sisters of the bridegroom, and Marie Cowie, cousin of the bride.

Leslie Hersch, her sister's flower girl, wore a mint green frock and carried a basket of blue, yellow, green and white carnations, baby's breath and fern. Bill Rossi was ring bearer.

Bob Dance was best man, and guests were seated by Craig Renck, Craig Tower and Brian Hersch, Kathryn's brother.

Both Kathryn and William are graduates of Terra Nova High School.

Two Held In Gun Theft Ring

Two residents have been arrested and $20,000 worth of reportedly stolen property recovered in an investigation which may lead to a crackdown on a source of stolen guns for Bay Area's motorcycle gangs, Daly City police report.

Police late Monday arrested Robert Miller, 45, and Donita Castello, 24, both of 29 Coma St., Daly City.

Miller has been charged with two counts of possession of stolen property, possession of dangerous drugs, and a violation of possession of firearms for a felon. His bail was set at $10,000.

Castello, police said, who also used the name Donita Miller, was charged with possession of stolen property and released on $2,500 bail.

The police said the arrests occurred at 11:20 p.m. Monday following several purchases of stolen property from the couple by an undercover agent.

The purchases included firearms believed stolen in Humboldt County, and about 500 pieces of women's clothing, also believed to have been stolen, the police said.

Officer John Kirby said additional property was retrieved at the Daly City house where the couple was arrested.

At least one more arrest related to the month-long investigation is expected, he added.

Kirby said it took about a week to reach the suspects but "then the investigation started to roll."

The investigation originated with the South San Francisco Police Department, Kirby said.

Pacifica Summer Program

Diversions for Teens

By BOB PETERSON

Being aware of free time and being able to cope with it is a virtue.

So says Bruce Vogel, 22-year-old staff aide in the Pacifica Parks and Recreation Department.

His job responsibility is to put together and monitor a summer recreation program for Pacifica's teenagers. And he does it enthusiastically.

"I know where they're at. I wasn't there too long ago," said Vogel, a recent graduate from San Francisco State University, with a degree in recreation.

He's not a philosopher. But he has what he calls "deep sweated" feelings about recreation, and his work. He picked up a poster advertising an upcoming event. "I think it's fun just pasting this thing together," he said.

Waiting outside his office, a cubbyhole in the upstairs front portion of city hall, where two young men who were there to discuss the possibility of putting together a back packing trip.

"That's fun. That's a kick in the pants," said Vogel, dressed leisurely in a denim shirt and corduroy slacks. "Who can complain about a job that involves talking about back packing?"

The eight-week summer program he's set up, and he welcomes ideas about other events, begins Wednesday with a "Showcase '76 In Concert" band series co-sponsored by Pacifica's Cable Television Studio 76.

Highlighted for this first concert, one is slated for every other Wednesday night at Oceana High School's multipurpose room, is the band "Eli." Also scheduled to perform is Pattie Santos' band. She (for those teeners who keep tabs) is a former lead singer with the group known as "It's a Beautiful Day."

Studio 76 will be taping each concert for replay at a later date. Vogel said concert attendance regretfully will be limited. Those who attend are asked to "bring your own pillow to sit on."

DOING HIS THING

Pacifica Recreation Department staff aide Bruce Vogel has a job that for some may be tiring and for others a joy. For him it's the latter. He's deeply involved in coordinating a summer recreation program for Pacifica teenagers, and is shown here posting a resume of the activities he is confident will appeal to youth.

Price of admission to these concerts, as with most every other event, is free with a Teen Card. These cards cost $2 and are good all summer.

Single attendance at all regular events is 50 cents. So, points out Vogel, an active participant would be money ahead with a Teen Card. Cards may be obtained at any of the Co-Rec Drop In programs.

Programs are slated at both Oceana and Terra Nova High Schools; Oceana on Wednesday nights and Terra Nova on Thursday nights. Everything from 3-man basketball and volleyball leagues to chess, checkers, arts and crafts is scheduled.

"This is an excellent program and an opportunity to have fun," said Vogel. "I believe in my program 100 per cent, or I wouldn't have set it up," he said matter-of-factly.

"I'm saying to these kids, there's a lot of things to do. Let's get together and do them. There's no reason to say there's nothing to do. If they take time to check these programs out they would find they are fun.

"Recreation is an attitude," said Vogel. "I try to keep my approach (to the teens) open and honest. I like being their friend. I get high off that," he said. "I only ask that they don't abuse or misuse the programs."

Also slated for "Summer '75" are two out-of-town trips. The first, July 12, is a boat ride and guided tour to Alcatraz. Cost, including transportation and the tour, according to Vogel, will be approximately $3.50.

A weekend in Southern California's magic kingdom — Disneyland — is another scheduled trip. Plans call for an Aug. 1 departure and an Aug. 3 return, spending all day and night Saturday at Disneyland.

Vogel said the cost, including transportation, sleeping accommodations, admission and a 15-ride ticket book, will be approximately $35.

There is one other event of particular note, according to Vogel. That is a July 18 appearance of the teen popular surf band Papa Du Run Da Ran. Advance tickets are $2.

Vogel said both Pacifica high school graduating classes had attempted to get the band to play at some year-end function, but arrangements could not be made.

"They can circle this date on their calendar," said Vogel in reference to Pacifica's teenagers. "They asked for them and soon they'll be here." Also scheduled to appear at the same time is the group called "Stillwater," said Vogel.

"If these things aren't good enough (to keep the teenagers occupied), I want to know what is. They should come and tell me and we'll get it together," said Vogel, as he motioned for the back-pack discussion to begin.

Santa Cruz Outing for Jr. Teens

The Daly City Junior Teen Clubs, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, are planning a day outing at Santa Cruz Beach and Boardwalk on July 12.

Swimming, sunbathing, wading, concessions and thrilling rides all will make for an exciting day at the playland area.

Busses will pick up club members and their guests 9:30-9:45 a.m. at the following sites: Telstars — Westmoor Park; Imperials — Midway Community Center; Colma — War Memorial Community Center; Serramonte — Gellert Park.

Approximate return time will be 8 p.m.

The cost for members is $3.25 while guests may attend for $3.50.

Summer teen club memberships are still available for a 50 cents fee and a small picture of applicant.

Flyers with permission slips and membership applications are available at all Daly City Playgrounds and Parks.

Santa Cruz slips must be turned in no later than July 10.

First Aid Class Set

The Daly City Recreation Department in conjunction with the Americann Red Cross, is offering a Standard First Aid Course for individuals who are 16 years of age and older.

The one-day course will be held on July 12 in the coral room of the War Memorial Community Center from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m.

Individuals completing the course will be issued Standard First Aid Cards which are active for 3 years.

There is $4 for the course which includes materials.

Individuals may purchase new printings of the first aid book for an additional $1.98.

Students wishing to enroll are requested to call the Daly City Recreation Department at 992-5356 prior to noon on July 11.

Fees are to be paid at the class.

Bruno Mountain Plans Detailed

The second in a series of public hearings before the San Mateo County Planning Commission concerning the Crocker Hills development adjacent to San Bruno Mountain was held in Daly City Wednesday.

A crowd estimated at more than 300 persons attended the lengthy hearing, which was dominated by a team of consultants for Visitacion Associates.

It was the first public hearing on the controversial issue held in the North County.

For four hours, planners listened to Robert L. Follett, general manager for Visitacion Associates, developers of the Crocker Hills community, introduce a steady line of consultants.

Included in the presentations were such areas as ownership of the mountain property, the county's housing needs, geology of the development land, the Crocker Hills conceptual plan, traffic and transportation, school requirements, the community's financial impact, noise levels, availability of utilities and landscaping and parksite improvements.

The crowd was made up of both proponents and opponents of the mountain plan.

Construction workers wearing hard hats, businessmen in suits and environmentalists handing out bulletins outlining their stand in the matter were on hand.

Planning Commission Chairman Fred Cohen said he had received a letter from a "concerned woman" that the public would not be allowed to tell their side of the development story.

"This is not true," Cohen said.

He said, "The public will be heard."

Follett, in his presentation, sprang two surprises:

He offered to establish a bonded assessment to build a K-5 elementary school and donate it to the Brisbane School District; and he proposed setting up a system whereby renters of Visitacion's apartments would have a specified amount of money put aside for perhaps five years in a homeowners' slush fund.

The renter could withdraw this money for home purchase later on, Follett explained.

Dr. J. D. MacConnell and Dr. William Strand, both former Stanford University faculty members, explained that the Brisbane School District is now "in the best financial condition it will ever be in."

But they warned that declining student enrollment and inflation would eventually take its toll.

And whether or not Crocker Hills is developed, the Brisbane School District will experience personnel reductions and, consequently, larger class sizes.

Follett explained that Visitacion Associates is a joint venture of AMFAC and Foremost-McKesson.

Together they own 1,273 acres on the Crocker Hills area adjacent to San Bruno Mountain.

"Most of the mountain itself already has been designated by the county for a regional resource park. The remainder of the mountain is in the process of being zoned by the county to a 'resource management' zoning which will preclude development," Follett said.

Studies by Robert Charles Lesser and Co. of Beverly Hills, disclosed that the county will need some 75,000 new homes and apartments by 1990, it was explained.

Of this number, which includes homes destroyed and replaced because of fire or age, Crocker Hills will provide 7,655.

"Visitacion is committed to providing low and medium income housing to the extent that federal or state support funds will be available. Up to 15 per cent of the proposed housing could accommodate that segment of the market," Follett said.

In addition, Lesser said results of current research by his firm has demonstrated that the projected total population for the development may be lower than the 18,500 figure estimated earlier by Visitacion Associates.

Lesser's report disclosed the school age population would be 0.26 per household — lower than original estimates, it was explained.

There are no geological or hydrological conditions which would hinder construction of the project, Dr. F. Beach Leighton and Dr. Ralph Gram, of Leighton and Associates, Palo Alto, reported after on-site testing.

William Chapman, president of KCA Engineers, San Francisco, said siltation from the development into the Colma Creek basin would be negligible and would not produce sand in the basin as developments in the Serramonte-Westlake-Westborough areas did in previous years.

Chapman based this argument on the type of material found at the site.

He disputed allegations presented by environmentalists that the water table in the area would be overdrawn nine times.

"It will only be overdrawn two times and that's not good," Chapman said.

An internal transportation system will cut traffic on local streets during peak hours.

It will be designed to shuttle people between the development, Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) station in Daly City or directly to San Francisco, transportation expert Juergen Fehr, senior associate of Alan M. Voorhees & Associates of Berkeley, said.

Nicholas Winslow, vice president and manager of the San Francisco office of Economics Research Associates, projected a total of 10,000 permanent jobs in Crocker Hills, including 2,600 jobs which exist now in the Crocker Industrial Park adjacent to Brisbane.

The annual payroll for these jobs will be $97 million, he said.

Miss Lee, Steve Schmitz Wed

Honeymooning in Hawaii are Mr. and Mrs. Steve Joseph Schmitz (Christine Ann Lee) who were married Saturday morning at St. Catherine of Siena Catholic Church in Burlingame.

Monsignor Timothy O'Brien officiated at the 11:30 ceremony which was followed by a reception in the garden of the San Mateo Park home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moroney.

Christine is the daughter of Mrs. Elaine Moyse Lee of San Mateo and James A. Lee Jr. of South San Francisco, who escorted her to the altar. Steven is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmitz of Burlingame.

For her wedding, Christine chose an Empire gown of ivory organza over silk with a chapel train and matching elbow-length veil. Her bouquet was made of roses and stephanotis.

Karen Lee served her sister as maid of honor and set the style of dress for all the bridesmaids in a sheer ivory and pastel print French cotton gown with turquoise ribbon trim on the bodice and the brim of a horsehair hat.

The bridesmaids included Carol Marciel, sister of the bridegroom, Noni Miller, Alison, Patrice and Michele Lee, sisters of the bride. They all carried multicolored spring blossoms. Ann Mullin was her cousin's flower girl in a gown matching the other attendants.

Artist Displays Work in Governor's Office

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. has joined Chicano artists from throughout California in the formal opening of a Chicano art exhibit in the governor's office.

San Mateo County artists whose work is on display include Francisco X. Camplis, Daly City; Lorenza Camplis, Daly City; and Vincent P. Rascon, Half Moon Bay.

More than 125 artists contributed approximately 450 works for the two-month display.

The art includes paintings, ceramics, bronze castings, silk screens, sculpture, wood carvings, fabric and woven creations, jewelry and Chicano dance costumes.

The exhibition also has a continuous slide presentation of Chicano murals throughout California.

The artists and area coordinators along with representatives of the governor's office worked together in locating and cataloging the works, setting up display cases and hanging paintings.

The exhibition is scheduled to last for two months.

It replaces a display of more than 350 Native American works of art.

NELL NORTON

New Menus for Summer Picnics

Good morning, good cooks.

Summertime is the season for portable picnics . . . it's great fun to tote along your picnic fixin's and eat alongside a bubbling brook or in a wooded forest. Next time you want to enjoy a portable picnic with your family plan your meal around this Portable Pan Picnic.

It's a hearty skillet supper that is great for campers and cookout enthusiasts. Uncooked egg noodles are bathed in a hearty sauce that's a trio of cans . . . mushroom steak sauce, tomato sauce and stewed tomatoes. A pound of ground beef goes a long way in the recipe, which feeds six to eight. To make the meal a truly well balanced dinner in a dish, complete with pasta, meat and vegetable, there's a can of vacuum packed golden whole kernel corn to add color, flavor and good nutrition.

PORTABLE PAN PICNIC

- 1 pound ground beef
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 16-oz. can stewed tomatoes
- 1 15-oz. can tomato sauce
- 1 5¾-oz. can mushroom steak sauce
- ½ cup water
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon garlic salt
- ½ teaspoon chili powder
- 1 12-oz. can vacuum packed golden whole kernel corn, drained
- 4 cups uncooked egg noodles

In large skillet or saucepan, brown the one pound ground meat and one-half cup chopped onion; drain off fat. Stir in the 16 ounces stewed tomatoes, 15 ounces tomato sauce and five and three-fourths ounces mushroom steak sauce; add the half cup water, one-fourth teaspoon each pepper and garlic salt and one-half teaspoon chili powder.

Drain the 12-ounce can whole kernel corn and add to sauce along with the four cups uncooked egg noodles. Cover and simmer, stirring occasionally, until noodles are tender. Serves 6 to 8.

A delightful dessert to take on a picnic or on a camping trip because it is so easy to make and to take along is this favorite of mine . . . a coffee cake topped with crunchy nuts and cinnamon.

MILDRED'S COFFEE CAKE

- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup margarine or butter
- 2 eggs, unbeaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- ½ cup milk
- 1½ cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder

Cream the one cup sugar with half cup margarine. Add the two unbeaten eggs and cream again. Sift together the one and a half cups flour and two teaspoons baking powder. Add one teaspoon vanilla to one-half cup milk. Add dry ingredients and milk to creamed mixture, alternately, ending with flour mixture.

Pour into greased 9x9-inch pan. Sprinkle with topping and bake in 350-degree oven for 45 minutes.

TOPPING

- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 cup walnuts, chopped
- 1 tablespoon butter

In small bowl combine the two tablespoons brown sugar, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon cinnamon and one cup chopped walnuts. Sprinkle over cake. Dot with the one tablespoon butter.

Fifty Plus Club members and their friends who plan to enjoy the Fall Foliage American Heritage trip in September and October are reminded that their second payment is due and payable tomorrow!

Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhon, the club's travel chairman, has worked hard — sometimes from her hospital bed — to put together a tour that will combine the lovely sights of autumn with glimpses of our national heritage as seen during this bicentennial year.

Tour members will be preparing their fall wardrobes for a Sept. 10 departure. The group will return Oct. 17.

Information about this trip is available to anyone interested. Call Mrs. Calhon, 355-2184 or Mrs. Elizabeth Funderburg, 355-2184.

"ANY WEDNESDAY" the comedy currently being presented by the Spindrift Players completes its three weekend run this Friday and Saturday evenings. Performances are scheduled each night at 8:30 p.m. in the Oddstad Center, 1050 Crespi Drive, Pacifica.

Tickets, at $2 for adults; $1.25 for high school students and 75 cents for children, will be sold, each evening at the box office.

WELCOME NEWS to all the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Norman McKinnon is the word that they are both home after several days at Mary's Help Hospital.

Friends are invited to send cards but visits should be limited for a time yet, according to close friends who have been lending Norman and Marie a hand during their illnesses.

FRIENDS OUTSIDE is seeking sponsors for the family camp program it sponsors for the children and mothers of men in prison.

The mothers and children are scheduled to spend one week at a camp in the Santa Cruz mountains and for many this will be a once in a lifetime experience. The cost per mother is $51. Teenagers may be sponsored for $34 and children may be sent for $25.

In addition to funds for the camp many of the families lack camping equipment so donations of sleeping bags — either given or loaned, towels, soap, toothbrushes and toothpaste are being sought.

If you would like to help with this effort please call the Friends Outside office, 661-6900.

HOME AFTER a vacation in Vancouver, B.C. are the John Madrosens of Daly City.

The trip combined a family reunion, with son, Clark, who lives in the Great Lakes area, and son, John, and his wife and children who live in Seattle, with a fishing expedition long planned by the senior Madrosen.

WOULD YOU like to develop a stronger feeling of closeness within your family? Are you interested in learning ways to help your children solve their own problems?

Mrs. Carol Benke is interested in hearing from anyone who answered yes to one or both of the above questions. Mrs. Benke, in cooperation with the Center for Better Living (Mental Health, Daly City) and the Mental Health Association of San Mateo County, is constructing a program of classes in Parent Child Communications to be offered in Daly City later this summer during the day time.

According to Mrs. Benke the courses will be presented in a six week format with sessions one a week for two hours. The series will cost $4 per person but scholarships are available which will reduce that amount by $1.

For more information call Mrs. Benke, 756-5091.

GRADS from San Francisco's Balboa High School are invited to come to the annual reunion picnic which will be held on August 3.

Tickets are now on sale and anyone interested in further information should call Mrs. Joan Christensen, 467-5021.

Two Sports— Two Problems

We hate to write what we are about to write, because it is against two entities which we dearly love — the Giants and boxing. We suppose the Giants will, in their era of paranoia, say that it as just one more attempt by one of those disgusting people "from the media" to put another nail in their coffin. It indeed may be another nail added to an already impressive list. And if not driven by the Giants themselves, it certainly will be held steady by them for the man with the hammer.

Ironically, we don't know of another sports writer-type in the area who would be harder hit personally should the Giants move. We've had a love affair going with them since they were in New York. When they moved to San Francisco, it was like someone had handed us a gold bar. In the interim this column has defended the Giants much more often then it has offended them, and even during those few offensive moments, we have never written against (though sometimes questioned) those subjects having to do with the playing of baseball, because we have always assumed that the administration of the Giants knows more about the game than we do. We have criticized only that which we are expert at, or rather, that which we have experienced as a consumer.

As a columnist who rarely accepts freebies or favors from the Bay Area athletic organizations, and as one who pays his own way into all stadiums, I've always felt columnists such as myself had the edge over most columnists who only occasionally slip down from the ivory press boxes or from out of the ring side to sit among the minions for a few innings or a quarter or a couple of rounds to gather material for a story with a different slant.

Thus, despite our unrequited love for the Giants and for boxing, we feel that our first duty is to our readers, the public, the fans . . . the minions; for we are among the minions continually, and believe us, its the minions who are getting ripped off!

This has been a rather lengtly introduction to two relatively simple occurrences which took place during a 12-hour period one day, the "position paper" is necessary so that it is understood, kids, "it hurts us more than it does you."

On this particular day the Giants were playing Atlanta. There were only about 5,000 people in attendance, and yours truly was hungry. So, as it turns out, were a lot of other people, because after we waited in vain for a hot dog vendor to come by, we risked missing a few batters to visit one of the concession stands. We were shocked to find that hungry people were, by literal count, 20 deep at every station! We went back to the stands to look for the 25,000 attendance that should be proliferating this mad rush. There were still only 5,000 in the stands. We waited another inning or two, believing that possibly what happened had been a freak thing. But when we went back, there were still people 20 deep, some, now near the front of the line, whom we had recognized from almost two innings before.

To make a long story short, it took three trips before we eventually gave up and decided to accept hunger as part of the game at Candlestick. Not until at least the fifth or sixth inning did we spot a hot dog vendor in the stands. A little later another one showed up. During that entire afternoon we saw only those two hot dog vendors in the lower stands.

In the meanwhile, we heard a lot of ominous grumbling from those minions in the concessions lines. Typical was the middle-aged man staring aghast at the long lines, obviously attempting to make a decision as to whether to enter one of them, satisfy his belly and miss an inning or two, or to go hungry and not miss any of the game, which was, afterall, his purpose for his $4.50 being there.

A friend of his, already in line, shouted a greeting to him and they began discussing the situation. The middle-aged man not in line concluded the conversation thusly: "I'll tell you. I haven't been to a game since last year. But I figured what the hell, the Giants have an interesting young club. I love baseball and what the hell, maybe if a few more people like me came out, we can keep the Giants from moving to Seattle. But after this deal today, I doubt I'll feel like coming out here again until next year. And it might be too late by then."

Now, it might be very easy for the boys in the front office to say that they don't have any control over the concessions people, and that doesn't really have anything to do with baseball, anyway. And very possibly Jim Kelly, the man in charge of concessions for Stevens Bros. at Candlestick had some valid reasons — from his point of view — for not hiring enough help that day. Maybe people were sick, maybe he had word from New York to cut down expenses, but the point is that fans who are hungry don't give a damn about Kelly's problems. They want to eat a cold hot dog on a stale bun without having to miss two innings of baseball. After all, has Kelly ever come into the stands and asked them what their problems are? Whether or not they can afford to buy inflated hot dogs and deflated bags of peanuts? No, he hasn't. And people don't expect that. They really have no right to. But they certainly have a right to expect to walk into a baseball stadium and buy something to eat when they're hungry without having to have an adventure to achieve that simple task.

Even though the Giants front office technically has little to do with concessions, we think that it should nonetheless be concerned about such things, because it is paying attention to the small details that makes for a first class operation, and classy operations make money and don't have to move.

Speaking of classless promotions we come to the Ray Lunny fight, which I attended later that evening.

Lunny, incidentally, has nothing to do with this. He is a first class fighter and a first class man. We talk of the promoters of that particular fight at the Circle Star Theater in San Carlos.

We had talked two friends into attending the fight with us on the basis not only of Lunny's performing that night, but also because another very good fighter, George Cooper, was on the bill, and because it was possible to buy $5 seats in an "arena" in which there are, literally, no bad seats.

But when we arrived, admittedly about an hour late, we were told that only the $7.50 and $10 seats were available. (We later discovered from a writer who covers the fight beat for a San Francisco daily that $5 seats weren't available from almost the instant the doors opened.) As it turned out, the $5 seats were 125 folding chairs rummed around the theater in one row behind the regular theater seats. Even at that, most of those seats were empty during the entire card!

The final rip-off was the unannounced unexplained cancellation of the Cooper fight. (Our San Francisco source says that even HE has yet to be informed by the promoters what happened to Cooper.) Needless to say, there were many upset patrons of the sweet science. Patrons who may not show up again for a long time.

If baseball and boxing are to survive in this area, promoters had better learn to treat their paying customers with the dignity they deserve, or they will discover not only that they are not the only games in town, but that, indeed there soon may no longer be any towns for their games.

DC Playground Activity Told

A summary of various Daly City playground activity during the summer follows.

WESTLAKE PARK started its summer program with many fun-filled activities. Wednesday's activities included exciting three-legged races with participants; Johnny Soldati, Chuck Becker, Chris Blakeley, Jim Riccomi, John Williams and John Smith. Anita Williams and Tina White were victors of the races.

Thursday was "Barbecue Day," with John Williams, David Anderson, Todd Swarthout, Frank Aguerre, John Aguerre, Tony Aguerre, Warren Goldenberg, Mark Dennehy, Alessia Erwin, David Martin, Robert Chiesa, Jim Riccomi, Gina Riccomi, Dorene Sylvester, and Susan Sylvester participating.

Throughout the summer Westlake Park will have the following program each week:

Monday: Movies, 10:30 a.m., cost 10 cents;
Tuesday: Trip Day.
Wednesday: Bike Club, 1-4 p.m.
Thursday: Barbeque, 12 noon, take your own food.
Friday: Cartoons, 11:30 a.m., sports films, noon.

DANIEL WEBSTER SCHOOL began the "Summer of Excitement" with many new and innovative leisure games and activities. Although most activities are open to all age groups, it should be pointed out that participation, effort, sportsmanship and improvement are the primary goals of the programs.

Here are the highlights of the opening week activities:

The most popular game was whiffle ball. Eric Crenshaw, Don Campbell and Vince Marino demonstrated their excellent hitting ability. Ferrera LeBlanc and Mark Svenson continually thwarted the opposition with pitching.

In other competition, Marissa and Marko Campos along with young Silva Martinez and Suzie Noonan displayed their skills in wall ball and dodge ball. In kickball, hustling Joe Ricker and speedy Mike Sosa starred throughout the week.

Jack DuPriest, a former Daly City champ, dominated carroms competition. However DuPriest faces top-notched challenges by Aeron Sencher, Rich Sais, and Shawn Carroll.

In games which required mental skill instead of physical ability — Nino Hampton was tough in "Scrabble" while Albie Baccei played well in "Password" and Lisa Agrimonte was skillful in "Sorry".

NORTHRIDGE PARK youngsters recently held a coloring contest:

Phil Frenkel, age 10, won most creative picture. In ages 0-6, Northridge winner was Darlene Amoroso, 6, first; Orette Banks, age 5, second; Rosemary Zaldonna, 6, third.

In ages 7-12, winners were Karen Van Order, 10, first; Audrey Bank, 10, second; Stacey Van Order, 7, third!

Each Tuesday a Bar-b-que is planned and each Thursday a walk over to Westmoor Park Clubhouse for a movie and arts and crafts!

PALISADES PARK, the foggiest park in the city, enjoyed four days of sunshine. To celebrate Wednesday, a bar-b-que picnic was held with everyone bringing their own hot dogs and marshmallows.

Base/Basketball is everyone's favorite game. Jazmin Zelaya and Mark Barrow are the current standouts in the game. The obstacle course in the tot lot is another favorite event.

Just lately basketball has become very popular with the guys.

Hancock Leads Bracco to Cage Triumph

John Hancock put on a fine offensive effort as he scored 22 points as Bracco Distributing won the Pacifica Spring Adult Basketball Championship defeating Geneva Tower A.K., 48-34.

John Adams paced the Tower ball club with 14 points.

Members of the championship team included Tom McVey, Larry Peoples, Bob Preston, John Hancock, Vince Green, Dave Stevens, Don Johnston, Nick Calia and Al Saisi.

The next adult basketball league will start in October.

DC Softball 16-1 Victory

Project Basketball ran its record to 2-0 with a 16-1 victory over Rael's Place in the Women's Softball League sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division.

Phyllis Alonzo again pitched a successful game for the victors and Melanie Warner was the hitting star.

Jerry Byrd Trucking also ran it's record to 2-0 with a 32-1 triumph over Ms. Ellaneous. Hitting and fielding paved the way for the victory.

In this week's games, both first place teams play each other to break the league leading tie.

Weekend Fishing Prospects

It must have been all of the water recreationalists and the hoards of fishermen crowding the rivers and lakes over the Fourth of July weekend which dampened the enthusiasm of PG&E stream scouts as they look forward to this weekend.

They did single out some likely prospects, but on the whole they were not overly optimistic about angling prospects. They did mention a few choice spots where they believe good catches may be obtained.

Here's the stream scouts' rundown:

In Humboldt County there are some steelhead, trout and salmon in the Orleans area. Mendocino County scouts were not especially optimistic.

On the Trinity River, salmon are making their first run of the season and on the upper Sacramento River, good kokanee catches are reported near Shasta Dam.

Macumber Reservoir on the Battle Creek watershed offers good fishing prospects, the PG&E stream scouts report.

A seven-pound trout was reported taken over the weekend in the Pit River near the Pit 1 powerhouse.

On the Sacramento River, the PG&E Stream Scouts suggest Beegum Creek or the South Fork of Cottonwood Creek.

Country Club Wins 8th Softball Game

All the bats came alive as Country Club (8-0) rolled to their eighth straight victory, as they whipped Winter's (5-3), 9-1, in Pacifica softball "A" league action.

Manor Barber (3-4) put together an outstanding team effort to down Capp's (2-6), 8-4.

Doug Matgen went "four for four" and teammate Tony Salzavala had three hits as Anderson Liquor (4-3) nipped the cellar bound Ernie Groves (1-7), 11-8.

In one of the best "B" league games played this week, Swiss American (3-4) used defensive skills to edge Wresco (3-4), 3-1.

Union 76 (4-4) pounded the ball over Fairmont West Park, as they gassed the Freaks (3-5), 18-8.

In a major "C" league upset St. Peters (2-6) put together one of the finest team efforts to down the Post Office (5-3), 12-8.

Scott Cruse and Dennis Beach rapped out three hits apiece, as Kingshill & Son (6-2) whipped St. Peters (2-7), 8-2.

Coastside (5-4) picked up a forfeit over Points West (3-6).

Cory Miller belted a home-run as Joe's (8-0) whalloped the Police Department (0-7), 10-5, in the "CC" league.

S&S Electrical (4-4) used fine team effort to whallop Gary's Gand (5-4), 15-6.

Shoe Fair Wins Annual Invitational

Shoe Fair of Daly City won the Fourth Annual Daly City Invitational Softball Tournament sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Division by defeating the Hot Shots twice, 6-2 and 5-1.

Timely hitting by Donald Carter, Dennis DiRicco and Paul Phalen and outstanding pitching by Steve Roche paved the way for the double victory.

The Hot Shots advanced to the championship game with the only perfect record with two dramatic last inning rallies against the Good Time Boys and French A.C.

Shoe Fair had to play seven games after a second round loss to get back into the championship game

Giants, Scots Top DC Boys Baseball

The Daly City Recreation Department sponsored boys baseball, seventh grade division, ended after 12 weeks of competition.

In the eastern division, the BYA Giants completed a near perfect season with an 11-1 record and first place finish.

The PAL Giants finished second with an 8-3-1 record just edging St. Andrews Grey who finished with an 8-4 record.

In the Seventh Grade western division, the St. Andrews Scots won the league title with an 8-1-1 record, just edging the OLM Red Birds (7-2-1).

The PAL Tigers finished in third place with a very respectable 6-4 record.

The following are the final standings of the two divisions:

Rock and Roll As Art Form

"If the music doesn't say it, how can feelings be explained in words . . . music has a life in and of itself."

Rock and roll stars are individuals who seek to challenge their listeners and to "sing of the social scene" with its good things and its "frantic and self conscious lack of even the most basic social amenities."

Thus reporter Katherine Orloff names rock and roll as an art form and states her belief that it should be studied and understood as men study other art forms.

Behind all the noise of the amplifiers and the blare of the guitars, rock and roll is a means of communication, performer to audience, with the performer's life style as the thing being communicated.

Many young persons realize this, and for them a rock and roll concert is a dynamic force" wherein the energy of the music and the intensity of the performer creates particular attitudes, inflections, accoutrements, even a vocabulary that becomes part of the listener's life style.

HOWEVER, the rock and roll scene is clouded with the shallow stars and with business men whose main concern is to make music pay. The musicians are at the mercy of promotion men seeking only to "get records played." Consequently too many stars have fallen into a trap that robs them of their artistry and makes them "slick and unfeeling, their subject matter heavy-handed and boring." They have become "anti-heroes, well-defined losers."

From such stars comes the rock and roll that is "blaring, aggressive, mean music, possibly reflective of mean times."

To feel the artistry and the life style that goes with it, author-photographer, Katherine Orloff, interviewed 12 of the leading stars, all of them women. The results are published in her book, "Rock 'n Roll Woman." It is a must for people seeking to understand our times.

Orloff ask Linda Ronstadt if she thought she was sacrificing any of her feminity. Ronstadt replied. "Oh sure, I've lost a lot of it. I keep trying not to lose it, because I think femininity is real important, even with changing sexual roles. I don't like the idea of women having to look like men. It seems to me they're trying to be something they're not and I don't like it."

Here, Linda Ronstadt echoes nearly every one of the 11 other stars Ms. Orloff interviewed. They believe, as Wendy Waldman said, "There is grace in a woman's home and in her love, in her children, in gardening, in cooking. There's no peace on earth like coming back into a clean house with fresh flowers and nice things. I believe in it very strongly.

HERE-IN LIES a paradox, for Wendy Waldman is an artist who sings rock and roll, because "I dig being sexy. . . . The audience needs to be turned on, and I definitely think you should be sexy on stage."

She says, "I wear low-cut things, a lot of silver and a lot of jewelry, a lot of make-up and my hair down. I try to make the very most of what I look like, because I believe in it, it's my conviction. I've had guys come on to me in a very rank way. It's okay because it's an idea that they're responding to. If they saw me sitting in my orderly shoes with my hair in braids, they would not want to come on to me. It's the idea." Yet she can admit, with remorse, "My personal life is upside down right now."

HERE, Wendy Waldman uses almost the same words as the other women in the Orloff book. They're stars; they like "nice people;" they believe the world runs on "an eternal music," but they believe that many of today's women have not found either.

"There is a craft to being a woman," one of them said. "The point for a woman is to say, Who am I? Where do I fit in the universe? What am I put here to do? What's the best way I can do it? Is it a solo trip this time or am I supposed to have a man, let me learn how to be both strong and submissive, understand what my role is supposed to be, so I don't have to wind it up with all that insane resentment. There's a lot of pain in that."

Yet, the women who speak thusly have to add, with Bonnie Raitt, "The biggest problem seems to be that the more successful I get the unhappier I tend to be. . . . I'm afraid they are reacting to me as ineffectual, hysterical, or bitchy."

Thus speak women who live as artists, rock and roll artists. Perhaps, they, like the great musicians and poets of all ages, feel and say what hundreds of others feel — in this case American women — "There's a lot of self-destruction among women today."

THE PERFECT HOST

Barossa Valley
Cabernet Sauvignon, 5th

The full body and complex taste of Barossa Valley Cabernet Sauvignon (pronounced Cab-er-nay So-vee-non) will be in pleasant company with a flavorful cheese like the Sharp Cheddar that is featured this week. This smooth red wine, like others, should be served at room temperature. Chilling a red wine has a tendency to blunt the bouquet and retard the flavor.

Barossa Valley Cabernet Sauvignon is a value at $2.49.

Problems of Finding Flavorful Produce Cited

Greengrocer Joe Carcione is a man who believes that you are what you eat but, he told the annual Farm Day Luncheon audience in Half Moon Bay Thursday, he and the consumers don't always like what they've been eating lately.

The problem is that "Producers are geared to make money" and "They pick early to ship to the east coast," he said.

Carcione has become a well-known Bay Area household name over the past several years for his radio and television reports on current best buys in fruits and vegetables from the South San Francisco Produce Market. He pictured himself to the crowd of 150 as a consumer's man and explained his criticism of modern food producers.

"You're not going to get nutrition if you don't get the vitamins and minerals the good Lord intended because you wanted to pick early and ship it east," he said.

Carcione conceded that produce "must have a proper shelf life but you can do it.

"There's a great difference between maturity and ripe and ready," he emphasized.

"There's only one thing that should come out without flavor and that's water," he said to applause.

Carcione added that he gets letters from housewives complaining about the tastelessness of their fruits and vegetables. "I say take it back to the supermarket and let him bring it back to the distributor and he take it back to the wholesaler and the wholesaler take it back to the grower. Let him know," he said.

Markets which tell complainers that their produce is good "or it wouldn't be there" aren't helping themselves any either, Carcione went on, because the neighborhood word of mouth can turn one dissatisfied customer into ten shopping elsewhere.

"We have a legitimate complaint. We just have to tell these growers and market owners we want good flavored fruit," Carcione said.

He talked also about "endangered plant life" caused by farming becoming big business, which has resulted in a narrower variety of produce, usually geared to crop yields and prices.

Always talking with feeling and largely with his hands, Carcione said sadly "I haven't seen a currant in two years" at the produce market, while describing the joys of currant jelly.

Crabapples, white corn and white asparagus are among the other delicacies that have become rare today, he said. "There's a spot for a small grower with 35 or 40 acres to spare for crops like this because there are people who want these things. It's a tremendous opportunity," he claimed.

On nutrition, Carcione claimed that green vegetables "have more vitamin C weight for weight than oranges" and while extolling the virtues of such other greens as parsley noted that "Of all the vitamin C in food, 95 per cent comes from fruits and vegetables."

In answer to an audience question, Carcione said best produce buys this week are green beans, lettuce and watermelon, even though the latter is 9 and 10 cents a pound.

An Offer To Build A School

Robert L. Follett, general manager of Visitacion Associates — developers of the proposed community on San Bruno Mountain — offered this week to build a new elementary school and donate it to the Brisbane School District.

Follett proposed to do this by creation of a bonded assessment district in the Crocker Hills development.

Dr. Robert Lloyd, superintendent of the school district, called Follet's action "A step in the right direction."

Lloyd had criticized the development, fearing it would place a heavy tax burden on the district and create myriad problems for the Brisbane School District.

"This is what I've been asking for all along," Lloyd said.

During his presentation before the San Mateo County Planning Commission Wednesday in Daly City, Follett scolded Lloyd for "taking a narrow, rigid and totally impractical position" on the school question.

"Dr. Lloyd has created a complete stalemate," Follett said, "and made the school issue appear to be a problem rather than a simple matter of implementation.

"I hope this public airing of the issue and of the positive steps Visitacion Associates has taken to resolve it will help us achieve an equitable and reasonable solution," he said.

Lloyd said Follett's statement concerning his stand "is simply not true."

On the contrary, Lloyd said, Follett is upset with him, "because he has had to capitulate (to our concerns) by doing part of what I've asked."

Lloyd maintains that Visitacion Associates should be responsible for implementation of an expanded school program that is expected to result from increases in the district's student enrollment because of the development.

Follett said the new K-5 school (four new schools are expected to be needed), would be built in the Northeast Ridge section of Crocker Hills.

He repeated an offer to donate all necessary playgrounds within the development to the school district, providing the playgrounds are made available to all citizens during off-school hours.

The new school and donated playgrounds would perhaps reduce the maximum school funding requirement (estimated at $7.5 million) to $5.85 million, a spokesman for Visitacion said.

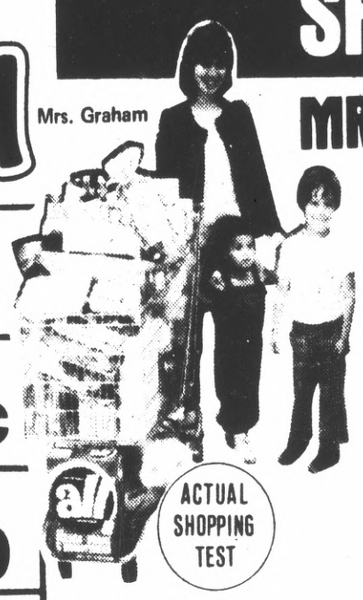
SHOPPERS' REPORT



Mrs. Stout's and Mrs. Graham's comparison tests were legally notarized on June 20, 1975.

MRS. GRAHAM SAVED 13.30 AT LUCKY

MRS. STOUT SAVED 8.23 AT LUCKY

Both Mrs. Stout of Sunnyvale and Mrs. Graham of Pleasanton, compared Lucky for their family's food needs with another supermarket of their own choosing in their community. They shopped using their own lists. Lucky did not tell them what items to buy . . . only to buy the same or comparable items at both stores. The amounts spent at each store were added up and both shoppers found their food bills were lower at Lucky!

'Memorandum of Understanding' Familiar Term

It's that time of year when "memorandum of understanding" is a familiar phrase around city hall.

Every city employe knows its importance.

The seriously thought-out, carefully drafted document spells out in explicit terms the main revenue source for most — salary — and so-called fringe benefits.

None is signed without long tiresome bargaining. And seldom does each bargaining unit end up with the same package.

South San Francisco is a case in point. Councilmen this week ratified "memoranda of understanding" with five different bargaining units. Three others are negotiating.

Of the five settled contracts, no two are alike. Settlements were made by management (Unit 1); professional and paraprofessional (Unit 2); police association (Unit 5); non-sworn police department personnel (Unit 7); and confidential (those privy to confidential employe information) employes (Unit 8).

The management and police association employes signed three-year contracts, while the other three groups' agreements are for two-year periods.

Assistant City Mgr. Mike Wilson said the eoriginal intent was for all groups to sign two-year contracts, but the police association was holding out for a three-year agreement.

According to Wilson, some thought on the matter induced the management group to go for a three-year contract also. This in future negotiations, would avoid simultaneous negotiations of contracts.

In the salary department, the management group during the first year of its contract will get a 5 per cent increase. Exceptions to this first-year period are the city manager, his assistants and department heads.

Beginning in July, 1976, everyone in the management group will receive either a 7½ per cent increase, or a percentage increase equal to the Bay Area Cost-of-Living Index, whichever is higher.

And for the 1977 fiscal year, those in that group will receive a salary adjustment in a per cent equal to the annual per cent change in the cost of living.

With the exception of the confidential employes, who also have the second year 7½ per cent option, the other three groups will have salary adjustments based on the cost of living.

First-year adjustments for the professional and paraprofessionals (dispatchers) and non-sworn police department employes will be 5 per cent, as with management's first year. An exception is a newly created communications dispatcher position which will register a 7½ per cent increase.

The police association and confidential employes will receive a 7½ per cent increase, effective this July 1, for the next fiscal year.

Insurance coverage is another major part of most memoranda and often as complicated as the salary provision.

In the five South San Francisco documents, the city pays out-right for a health and dental plan for management and confidential employes and their dependents. The other three groups have paid monthly premiums of $75 toward the health and $25 toward the dental plan. In the second year, these amounts go to $80 and $30.

Life insurance coverage for all groups, except management, is for $5,000. The city-paid life insurance for the management people is an amount equal to their base salary.

"It's cheaper than a salary increase," said Wilson.

Wilson said the city wants to retain a concept of a monetary limit on premium benefits. He said the premiums paid in this instance, are large enough so that the city is, in fact, paying full coverage for everyone. The monetary amounts in these contracts are there as a future guide, he said.

A long-term disability plan providing for two-thirds base pay during disability is included in the professional and paraprofessional and non-sworn police department personnel contracts, as well as in the confidential employe agreement.

The police association agreement provides for a retirement plan commonly referred to as "one-half survivors benefit," entitling the unaltered retirement allowance to a survivor.

A health plan for employes retired on a disability or service retirement, including all costs until the employe is gainfully (which is defined) employed, is part of the management agreement.

The management group also has a promise that the city will review a deferred compensation program for adoption at a later date.

This program, according to Wilson, will allow persons in management to participate in what amounts to both a money and tax savings program.

He said the employes, under an Internal Revenue Service sanctioned method, can deposit part of their salary into a special account in a specified financial institution for withdrawal at a later date. It is at that later date, such as after retirement, what taxes on that deposited money will be paid. This also helps the higher-paid management people get into a lower tax bracket, said Wilson.

Depending on how the program works out, Wilson said, it likely will be available to other employe groups at later negotiation sessions.

The confidential employes gained a longevity program, paying from $10 more a month for 10-to14 years service to $60 a month for 40 years or more of service.

Additional benefits could accrue the confidential and management employes depending on what settlement the three outstanding groups — clerical, streets and parks and firemen settle for. This would concern an optical plan and maybe better insurance coverage.

Added benefits of a first-time nature also were included in the management agreement. One is a stipulation that the city will pay for an annual comprehensive multiphasic physical examination by a medical doctor for all in the group.

Wilson said the expense isn't expected to be as great as first thought, since many of the employes are under the Kaiser program and any Kaiser member can get such a physical on his own anyway. He said under Blue Cross, the city would be paying only 20 per cent of the cost.

The other newly included item in the management agreement states the city manager, "in the event of involuntary termination, excluding death or any form of retirement," is entitled to severance pay equal to three months base pay.

Severance for his assistants and department heads, under the same termination conditions, will be an amount equal to one month's base pay.

JESD to Hire Guard

A watchman service at all 22 Jefferson Elementary School District sites will be implemented as a result of a recent $250,000 fire at one school.

In fact, the district's insurance carrier said increased arson is prompting a re-evaluation of fire prevention devices at schools throughout the state.

Life Insurance Company of North America (INA), the JESD carrier, reacted to the Woodrow Wilson fire of last month by requiring trustees to:

.. Install an instrusion alarm system with central station reporting and ultrasonic detection: or

.. Install a full heat and smoke detection system on all buildings.

If either of these are not accomplished, the carrier will be forced to withdraw from the account, the board was told.

The watchman service will be implemented for the interim period until devices are installed.

Kenneth H. Geiser, INA loss control department manager, told the board that the 45-day period is "a little too tough for 22 school locations but we are trying to get the bids out as quickly as possible."

He said while facilities remain vacant all day during the summer and children are out of schools, the arson risk is even greater.

Geiser said that the district could take the higher value schools into consideration first, and by the end of the 45-day period, most schools will be completed.

"If you don't have them all in by 45 days, we won't back out," Geiser said.

Gusts Celebrate 48 Successful Years

Forty-eight years ago, christened with the bursting of firecrackers and the glittering gleam of sparklers, a restaurant was opened at Rockaway Beach by a Coastsider named Charles Gust. At first it was a simple business that filled the needs of fishermen who wandered the beaches, but very quickly it became an institution and a tradition. Today all those traditions are being kept alive by Charles' son, Nick Gust, who, along with his wife Lorraine, daughter Kathy, and son "Chuck," continues to run Nick's restaurant as well as the newer gourmet houses, the Moonraker and Captain Charles, located in the Gust complex at the foot of Rockaway Beach Avenue.

The latter two restaurants specialize in seafood dishes and have been "happy ships" because of the good-natured manner of Gust and the efficiency of his general manager Josef Mollich.

The current Moonraker executive chef is Karl Welsch. Hubert Denver is assistant chef.

THE TASTE TELLS

Pretty movie and TV actress Francine York's hobby is gourmet cooking. Her creations are featured in Lehr's Greenhouse restaurant in San Francisco, where she is pictured tasting her newest deviled egg recipe.

Entertainment Names Visit Scotty Campbell's

Just before Mary Lou Fox of Scotty Campbell's restaurant took off for a Lake Tahoe vacation, which was set up by the Nevada Tours, she phoned to inform this scribe that Lindsey Buckingham and Richard Dashit, members of the Fleetwood Mac group, were recent guests at her Redwood City dinner house. Scotty Campbell's has long been a favorite stop for entertainers whenever they play the Circle Star Theater. Incidentally, Mary Lou's collection of autographed celebrity photos is one of the best. . . . Enjoyed quite a meeting with Enrico Romano, the handsome, bewhiskered owner of Romano's Italian restaurant and Pizza Parlor in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. When dining here, plan a little chat with the "king" — each word is a jewel. . . . Famed film and television star Forrest Tucker graciously signed autographs for admiring fans between bites of New York steak in the elegant Wellington Room of Phil Lehr's Steakery in downtown San Francisco. . . . Nevada Tours continues to send happy vacation people to the Nevada area with their money-saving package deals, which are offered seven days a week.

Shirt Tail Special Proves A Winner

The special $3.95 dinners now being offered at the Shirt Tail restaurant in Palo Alto provide food variety for all tastes — seafoods, casseroles, poultry, and several choice beef items. Served from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays. The modest tab includes salad or soup, dessert and beverage. . . . Although the Bayhill Lounge in San Bruno is relatively new, the owners have already made some changes. An enlarged dance floor is the latest addition, and a group called Apocalypse is providing the sounds — from rock to Bach — nightly, Wednesdays through Saturdays. . . . For a bite to eat following a movie or a late-evening show (or any time, for that matter), stop by the Chez Bon restaurant, located in the Ramada Inn, in Burlingame. This 24-hour service spot offers a nice selection of sandwiches, all the typical breakfast items, and complete dinners. The service, directed by Food and Beverage Manager Frank Hamburger, is exceptional. . . . The new "Princess Room," an extraordinary banquet facility in the beautiful Superior Palace restaurant, San Francisco, is already in the process of being booked solid for the next few months. . . . Although Vince Licata and his family have been on vacation for only a few days, it seems more like a few months ago that their Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant posted the "Gone Fishing" sign. However, they're all back in action, and one and all are invited to bring in big appetites.

"How To Succeed" Full of Nitwits and Ninnies

Taking into account that the Civic Light Opera is in business to entertain people and the dearth of suitable musicals to satisfy that need, "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying" which opened at the Curran Theater this week doesn't rate even a small whoopee from me. What's wrong with it can't be fixed, and that's the show itself, Pulitzer Prize, notwithstanding.

What the show has going for it are Robert Morse and Rudy Vallee in the roles they created on Broadway in 1961 and again in the film version in 1967. Vallee had trouble being heard in the first half but someone turned up his body mike for the second half and his vivacity, matched by Morse's cutesy portrayal of the opportunistic young business executive who goes from window washer to chairman of the board with the upward mobility of a slip on a banana peel, launched the seven-week local run with a modicum of joviality.

Even with Morse directing and five of the original cast attempting to recreate the pace of the satire that was such a smash hit in its day, the show is outdated and dreary.

No matter how attractive Penny Worth is as the predatory secretary, Rosemary, who moons after the cunning corporate fledgling and sings of her pursuit in "Happy to Keep His Dinner Warm," she can't make the character anything more than a dimwit.

Morse's stock in trade, the innocent uplifted eyes, the flapping elbows, stumbling walk and tenuous leaning-but-always-slipping against the furniture, still serve him well.

But guys like J. Pierpont Finch don't have a chance in big business anymore. They're too obvious, never very talented or even smart, and while losers never go out of fashion (especially with women), pushy little jerks like Finch are contemptible. What's likeable about a stage full of nitwitsand ninnies?

There's a line from the song "Brotherhood of Man" that irks my more rational judgement. The one that says "remember mediocrity is not a sin." In my book it is.

Ruth Kobart as the easily flattered executive secretary and Joy Claussen as Hedy LaRue, a secretary with impressive physical statistics but a bust at the typewriter with 12 words a minute, played those same parts 14 years ago and still have the movie to do them with a flair. Vallee milks as much as he can out of the old poop of a president of World Wide Wicket Company but its a sappy role and the jaunty air that Vallee brings to it isn't sustained.

He and Christian Grey as the spitefully aggressive crybaby nephew Frump outrageously overact. There's only one character, that of Mr. Twimble played with poise by Sammy Smith (another of the original cast) who heads the mail room from where all promotions flow, who has any dignity at all.

Robert Randolph's garish yellow, black and orange sets are awful. All the musical numbers and dances by William Joyce copy Bob Fosse's staging but less energetically.

"How to Succeed" did in the 60s. The CLO should have left well enough alone.

Service Awards To 24 Employes

Williams and Burrows, Inc., the general contracting firm headquartered in Belmont, last week presented service awards to 24 of its employes, including nine from San Mateo County.

Frank Burrows, chairman of the Board, presented the awards at the company's annual dinner in San Mateo on June 20.

Roy Ontano of San Bruno was honored for 25 years of service.

Harold Turnbough, San Bruno; William B. Sullivan, Belmont; Alvin Dutton, Mountain View; Leroy Ewing, Richmond; Hans Groffie, Palo Alto; Raymond H. Langlois, Santa Monica; Johnnie Legget, San Jose; Charles Uyeda, San Jose; and Asael Villarreal, San Jose, received 10-year awards.

Five-year pins went to:

Dee Ball, Redwood City; William D. Burrows, Atherton; Robert Fritz, Redwood City; Patrick Hannon, Redwood City; Lamar Winding, Daly City; Gary Piper, Burlingame; Clayton B. Dodson, Fremont; Charles Egan, Mountain View; James R. Gary, Union City; Robert Locklin, Palo Alto; Robert Lugo, San Jose; Kent Munro, San Leandro; Walter Robinson, Richmond; and Tony Torres, San Jose.

Discounts For Senior Citizens?

San Mateo County's six American Association of University Women branches are gearing up to join a new westward movement — a campaign to get price discounts from local merchants for senior citizens.

This movement started in the east and has spread westward over the past four years.

It works this way:

AAUW volunteers are soliciting independent merchants around the county to offer the discounts, usually 10 per cent, to those who show some proof of seniority, such as a Medicare card.

Senior citizens in turn will be urged to patronize shops showing a "Community Concern" poster in their windows which shows they have joined the program.

The resulting two-way traffic in this approach has benefited seniors, most living on fixed incomes, and the economy of local communities where it has been used, according to Mrs. Sara Boddinghouse, the local AAUW program coordinator.

The six branch chairmen working with here: Mrs. Robert Lindberg, 249 Sevilla Ave., El Granada; Mrs. Sandra Boone, 121 Linden Ave., San Bruno; Mrs. David Steinbaugh, 36 Belford Way, San Mateo; Mrs. Bernard Corner 931 Cambridge Road, Redwood City; and Mrs. Ronald MacQuarrie, 558 Kielson Court, Redwood City.
